

Lynch Law Used By British Rulers Against Sinn Fein

London Times and Other Papers Openly Accuse Government of Inciting
"Black and Tan" Forces to Murder and Arson.

GOVERNMENT URGED TO CHANGE METHODS

Reports Tell of Numerous Threats of Further Reprisals by British—Archbishop of Canterbury Urges Christians to Pray Over Situation.

London, September 28.—Serious anxiety over the recurrence of the "black and tan" reprisals in Ireland is reflected by English newspapers, which sharply call for the government to halt what is described by The London Times as "semi-official lynch laws."

Earlier occurrences in Ireland passed without much notice here, but recent raids, especially those on Balbrigan and Trim, and the lukewarm criticism of the "black and tan" police forces by General Sir Cecil F. Nevill MacReddy, military commander of Ireland, are causing considerable disquietude.

Condemnation of recent disorders is not confined to newspapers, which are "avowedly sympathizers with the Irish nationalist movement," but the conservative Graphic, which is an unsparring critic of the Irish Fenians, declares:

"This is not calm and orderly justice and punishment, according to British ideas. It must be stopped."

Charges that the government is following the methods of its opponents are made by The Times.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has issued an appeal to Christians to make national troubles the subject of prayer.

The standing committee of the Irish peace conference has adopted a resolution recording its conviction that the reprisals "constitute an almost insuperable barrier to the success of the committee's efforts in the cause of peace."

Meanwhile reports from Ireland tell of numerous threats of further reprisals, circulated verbally or by posters. Warnings are alleged to have been given several towns in West Clare that they would be burned unless Captain Lendrum, resident magistrate of Kilsah, who had been missing since last Wednesday and who is believed to have been kidnapped, is not returned within 48 hours. The town of St. Neir suffered from a raid at an early hour Monday. Shots were fired into houses, some of the inhabitants were roughly handled, but none was seriously hurt.

It is explained there are two forces called "black and tan." One is composed of English recruits and the other largely consists of demobilized army officers who were engaged to arrange for the defense of threatened barracks in disturbed districts in Ireland. Both wearing uniforms of khaki and black owing to a shortage in full uniforms.

Dispatches do not disclose which element has been responsible for raids.

In Defense of Reprisals.
The London Globe, in an editorial today, came out squarely in defense of reprisals.

"It is not in accordance with human nature," the editorial said in part, "to endure attacks without retaliating. Violence is the inevitable resort of men exasperated beyond endurance. They are driven to reprisals as their only resource."

"There are only two methods by which the Irish question can be dealt with," The Globe continued.
"Either the Sinn Fein element should be given what it wants or the entire southwest portion of Ireland should be declared in a state of siege."

The Globe favored the latter method as the only one which the English government could pursue.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, today telegraphed The Fall-Mall Gazette saying there "was no truth in the report that the government was supporting reprisals."

"The government condemns this method of procedure and has issued orders against it," the message said.

Greenwood pointed out that despite the brutal murder of nearly an hundred police, the number alleged, reprisals have been few and the damage greatly exaggerated.

BELFAST PEOPLE
SHOT TO DEATH
BY BRITISH TROOPS

Belfast, September 28.—Two civilians were shot dead and a number of persons were wounded during a clash between soldiers and a crowd on the Falls road late today.

Would-Be Suicide Battles Doctors Who Offer Life

James Rogers, Who Was Wounded During World War, Swallows Lysol.
Trouble With Wife Believed Cause.

Desperate because his plans of self-destruction were being thwarted, James A. Rogers, 29 years of age, of 291 Luckie street, battled for more than an hour Tuesday night with surgeons and Grady hospital attendants after he had swallowed a quantity of lysol. His condition is critical.

When the ambulance and surgeons arrived at the home, he was found lying on his bed, and near him were two notes he had written, one to his mother, the other to his wife, telling them of his intentions.

Rogers batted furiously with the surgeons until they arrived at the hospital and refused any treatment could be administered to him it was found necessary to tie him to the table.

It is believed that Rogers' attempt upon his life was the outcome of a disagreement with his wife, who, it is said, has been separated from him for some time and who is now living at 45 Carnegie way.

Rogers served for fifteen years in the United States military corps, was wounded while serving in France in the world war. He is a present student of the vocational training school at Tech.

Bursting Flywheel Takes Life of One Girl And Hair of Another

Richmond, Ky., September 28.— A portion of a bursting fly-wheel from the roof of the electric light plant here early today to the home of Wallace Hunter, 600 yards away, where it killed his young daughter, Fanny, and clipped the braids from the head of her sleeping mother, who contributed to the disaster by standing near the door of the dwelling and was found in the yard two feet under ground.

New York, September 28.—Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey, today "matched the presi-eleven grandchildren by contributing $6,000 to the democratic na-

Mother Guilty Of Aiding Sons To Evade Draft

Wealthy Mrs. Bergdoll and Four Co-Defendants Convicted—Motion for New Trial.

Philadelphia, September 28.—Mrs.
Emma C. Bergdoll and her four co-defendants were found guilty of conspiracy to aid two of her sons, Grover and Erwin, evade the draft. The verdict was returned before Judge Dickinson, in federal court.

Mrs. Bergdoll, her son, Charles A.
Braun, and former Magistrate John A. Romig were found guilty of every count under which they were indicted.

Albert S. Mitchell and Henry Schup were acquitted on the indictments which they alone were defendants, but found guilty with a recommendation for mercy in the joint bills.

On application of their counsel the defendants were released on $10,000 bail each pending a motion for a new trial.

There were seven indictments, including fifty-six counts. In two of the indictments all five defendants were charged with conspiring with Grover and Erwin Bergdoll to assist them in evading the draft. The other five indictments charged each defendant separately with conspiring with the Bergdoll brothers to evade the draft. During the trial, the defense, hunting and fishing trips enjoyed by the two Bergdoll brothers while they were being sought by the government were described by the witnesses for the prosecution. It was testified that Mrs. Bergdoll was present at the autumn hunting and fishing trips and prepared lunches to be eaten by their sons and their guests. Former Magistrate Romig, according to the testimony, was on several of these trips and, together with Mrs. Bergdoll, had withdrawn $105,000 in gold from the treasury at Washington in exchange for bank notes.

Braun, who changed his name because of his brother's escapades, was accused of harboring Erwin at his home. Mitchell, an automobile salesman, and Schup, formerly private of a cafe in the city, were implicated in the furnishing of an automobile for Erwin's use.

MURDER INDICTMENT GIVEN BY GRAND JURY

Against B. F. McDonald, Driver of the Car Which Killed Mrs. Carobel Holley Smith Saturday Night—Police Board
Makes Recommendations.

Resolutions urging city authorities to give persistent attention to the enforcement of the traffic ordinances; commending the solicitor general and his assistants and the chief of police for their stand on the question of violations, and urging council to pass an ordinance making it unlawful for a person to drive a motor vehicle without a license or permit issued by the proper authorities, were passed by the Kiwanis club at its weekly luncheon yesterday, following a scorching denunciation of violators by President Eubanks, who presented the resolutions.

This action came as part of the agitation which has followed the deaths of two people last Saturday night and that of a third Monday morning in auto accidents. The action of the Kiwanians, it is thought, will be followed by similar action of other organizations of the city.

McDonald is indicted for the murder of Mrs. Carobel Holley Smith Saturday night, for running down and killing Mrs. Carobel Holley Smith Saturday night.

McDonald was one of two cases of his kind presented to the grand jury and was one of three arising from the accidents of last Saturday night and Monday morning. The grand jury will consider evidence at its next meeting, on Friday, against Mrs. Nellie E. Sullivan and Joseph T. McCall, who drove the machine which killed Mrs. Carrie May Merz and W. W. Moore. Murder indictments will be sought against these men. McDonald was indicted on six counts and is being held at the police station without bond.

The traffic committee of the special commission, which met in the session Tuesday morning in the office of Ed H. Inman, the chairman, decided to recommend the organization of a "traffic police" unit, separate unit of the Atlanta police force, to be trained by an expert traffic officer from New York.

Plans for deputizing of citizens to check up violations, and a general tightening of enforcement in all ordinances will also be recommended.
The other members of the traffic committee are Aldine Chambers and Andy King.

The recommendations which will be made follow:

command of a lieutenant, with the special duty, members of the squad to be selected by the police board.

2. Deputizing of citizens to check up violations, the instructor to be an expert traffic officer from New York.

3. Addition of 20 extra officers using 10 Ford cars, one car with two officers to each team of officers.

4. Deputizing of citizens to check up violations and all other infringements of the law.

5. Deputizing of citizens to check up

Eight Chicago Players Suspended Following Cicotte's Confession

Pitching "Ace" of White Sox Admits That He Was Influenced by Professional Gamblers to "Throw" 1919 Series.

FILLED WITH REMORSE, ASSERTS THE TWIRLER

Hopes of Comiskey Machine Practically Killed in Official Edict Barring Players From Further Participation in Close Pennant Chase.

Chicago, September 28.—Indictments were voted against eight baseball stars today and confessions obtained from two of them.
When the Old Roman, Charles A.
Comiskey, owner of the off-time champion Chicago White Sox, smashed his pennant chasing machine to clean up baseball. The confessions told how the Sox threw last year's world's championship to Cincinnati for money paid by gamblers.

Seven Sox regulars and one former player compose the players against whom true bills were voted by the Cook county grand jury and the seven were immediately suspended by Mr. Comiskey. With his team only one game behind the league leading Cleveland Indians, the White Sox owner served notice on his seven stars, that if they were found guilty, he would drive them out of organized baseball for the rest of their lives.

Officials of the organization, in declaring federal reserve banks cannot extend credit to farmers for the purpose of holding their products until better market prices are obtained, following a conference last Tuesday afternoon, called a meeting in the senate chamber of the state capitol Thursday morning to vigorously protest against such action.

Immediately after the meeting adjoined, the officials sent telegrams to every Georgia congressman, senator, members of the legislature, leaders of the American Cotton association and the Farmers' union, requesting that they attend the meeting Thursday at the state capitol, as the farmers are now facing a situation which is characterized by Congressman Brown as being the "most serious confronting the state in many years."

Dr. Jameson's letter, in full, is as follows:

"To the People of Georgia: The friends of good government in Georgia, of upstanding citizenship, and of private lives of men who espouse to become leaders in state affairs, have been gored by William Randolph Hearst in his mad desire to build up a political ring in Georgia, with Thomas W. Hardwick as his ringmaster, until patience has at last ceased to be a virtue.

"In God's name it is now time to talk out in public, and to throw down every other duty that confronts us and work until the polls close on the 6th of October to see that his scheme is frustrated.

"It is menacing. It is serious. It is not to be temporized with.

"The individual equation is no longer the issue. It is not now a question of electing or defeating any one man for governor.

"Perpetuation of Democracy.
It is a question of the perpetuation of the democracy that saved the south in the late sixties, when it was threatened by negroes and white renegades.

"It is a question of purity and morality in the affairs of state that reach the hearthstone of every home, and the class room of every school.

"It is a question of loyalty to that flag for which our fathers fought at Valley Forge and our sons and brothers sustained in all of its glory in the Argonne.

"It is a question of continued white domination in the south; of the ideals of a free government as against revolution; of conservatism against radicalism; of political honor against the lust for bushwhacking.

"There is no better evidence of the tactics of William Randolph Hearst in his plan to 'control' Georgia than the low level to which he descended in Monday's issue of his Atlanta Georgian.

"The most infamous and cowardly attack ever made on a citizen of Georgia was made, on the editorial page of that paper, on Clifford Walker, candidate for governor, under the nom de plume of 'Friends of the Hardwicks.'

"It is cowardly because it bears the earmarks of another 'A. B.
Smith' communication that appeared in the same paper during the last campaign, the 'A. B. Smith' being a myth as proven by exhaustive efforts to locate such a man, even with the stimulating reward of $250 in gold.

"In this latest attempt to cowardly attack with lies the character of a good and upstanding citizen behind an anonymous editorial communication Mr. Hearst has transgressed journalistic decency, as it is practiced in the south, and has shown his true character in resorting to a most contemptible method of assassinating character in the interest of political designs.

Charge Against Walker.
"In the communication referred to appear the following:
"Mr. Walker has no family—would have left no wife at home, nor children to be orphaned.
Pray tell us, Mr. Walker, why you did not join the Y. M. C. A."

MacSwiney Lives
Through 47 Days
On Hunger Strike

Again Asserted the Irish Lord Mayor Is Being Secretly Fed by Direct Orders of Dignitaries of His Church.

London, September 28.—Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, passed a better night last night and was, in consequence a little more refreshed this morning, said a bulletin issued by the Irish Self-Defence league at this forenoon. He was very weak and exhausted, however, and in some pain, the bulletin declared. This is the forty-seventh day of the lord mayor's hunger strike.

In his report to the home office, the physician at Brixton prison said:
"He is slightly thinner, but otherwise there is no marked change from yesterday. The prisoner is unquestionably growing weaker daily."

At midday the league's bulletin said:
"There is very little change in the mayor's condition. He is suffering great pain in the right arm.
To his sister, Mary, who visited him, he said, 'I feel quite used up.'"

In rebutting the arguments of Lord Mayor MacSwiney's friends that the extreme care given him in the precautions taken against blood-poisoning, make the duration of his fast less remarkable, it is suggested by some of the newspapers that this explanation would not be difficult to accept in his case, but seems to be illogical when it is considered that there are eleven hunger strikers in Cork who have been abstaining from food for two days longer than MacSwiney, and all of them seem to be making quite as surprising an exhibition of endurance.

In connection with this feature of the case, The Yorkshire Post says:
"It is not only asserted that Mayor MacSwiney is being fed, and this by direct orders of dignitaries of his church, but even the name of the sustaining tabloid from which he is to be fed is given—'The Irishman'—and it is said that he is given."

The fourth game, played at Chicago, was also deliberately thrown away, according to court officials by declared a matter of concern to their independence from a member of the whole league, and the league shall take any action that may be deemed effectual to safeguard the peace of nations. In case any such emergency should arise, the secretary general shall on the request of any member of the league forthwith summon a meeting of the council.

"It is also declared to be the friendly right of each member of the league to bring to the attention of the assembly or of the council any circumstance whatever affecting international relations which threatens to disturb international peace or the good understanding between nations on which peace depends."

Wilson Uses Tumulty's Signature.

The president issued his first campaign document over the signature of Secretary Tumulty. Tumulty, at the direction of the president, replied to a letter from Edwin M. Swartz, of Los Angeles, by quoting answers the president made to questions from newspaper men when he was on his western trip last year. The president said in addition to the paragraphs quoted, that the covenant of the league does not obligate any nation to assist in putting down rebellion within another nation, and that under the covenant this country could recognize the independence of a people who had achieved

"The letter was regarded as the first of a number of utterances the president will make to assist Governor Cox. It marked his open entry into the campaign, following an adjustment of differences between himself and the Cox forces. Democrats, it is said, are willing for the president to force the league issue to the front, and are anxious for his support in behalf of Cox.

It was considered noteworthy that the president had come to grips with Harding at the outset, and that he had struck directly at the heart of a question that has figured largely in the campaign.

Swartz Asked About Ireland.

In his letter to President Wilson Mr. Swartz declared the forces supporting the republican ticket were contending that if Article 10 of the league covenant was ratified the United States "would be bound to support England in holding Ireland under subjection."

The letter to Mr. Swartz follows: "In reply to your letter of the 20th of September, I beg to say that the identical questions contained in your letter, with reference to Article 10 and the right of self-determination, found in the covenant of the league of nations were placed before the president while he was on his western trip last year and fully answered by him. The president directs me to call your attention to the following questions and answers given by him to the press at that time which I think satisfactorily answer your inquiries.

Questions and Answers.

The questions and answers are as follows:

"Q. Under the covenant does the nation obligate itself to assist any member of the league in putting down a rebellion of its subjects or of a conquered people?"

"A. It does not.

"Q. Under the covenant can this nation independently recognize a government whose peoples seek to achieve or have achieved their independence from a member of the league?"

"A. The independent action of the government of the United States in a matter of this kind is in no way limited or affected by the covenant of the league of nations."

"Q. Under the covenant are those subject nations or peoples only that are mentioned in the peace treaty entitled to the right of self-determination or does the league possess the right to accord a similar privilege to other subject nation or people?"

"A. It was not possible for the peace conference to act with regard to the self-determination of any territories except those which had belonged to the defeated empire, but in the covenant of the league of nations it has set up for the first time in Article 11, a forum to which all claims of self-determination which are likely to disturb the peace of the world of the good understanding between nations upon which the peace of the world depends can be brought.

"Q. Why was the case of Ireland not heard at the peace conference?"

"A. The case of Ireland was not heard at the peace conference because the peace conference had no jurisdiction over any question of that sort which did not belong to the defeated empire. My position on the subject of self-determination of Ireland is expressed in Article 11 of the covenant in which I may say I was particularly interested because it seemed to me necessary for the peace and freedom of the world that all peoples could be heard to which all peoples could bring any matter which was likely to affect the peace and freedom of the world."

"GOLD TOOTH" BABY IN THE 16TH CENTURY

Instead of osseous and consequently secreted gold. Upon this data Horst predicted the immediate coming of the millennium or golden age. In this case the tooth in question was the last, which he maintained signified great calamity, and since it was a molar and the end of the dentition he held that the end of the world would follow.

Controversy for 100 Years.

The controversy lasted for more than 100 years involving such men as Baltheasar Camandras, Martin Ruland and Johann Ingelstetter. Serres tells of a Polish child who possessed an entire set of gold teeth and was adopted by the church.

LEGION'S STAND ON UNION LABOR

Convention Indorses the Statement of Commander D'Olier—Legion's Stand Regarding Politics Up Today.

Cleveland, September 28.—The second annual convention of the American Legion in session here today underwent a barrage of resolutions and committee reports and then adjournment was taken. This evening after a nine-hour session, there were several committees to be heard, reports of which will be brought up tomorrow morning.

The committee on time and place for the next national convention recommended Kansas City as the place and October 31 to November 2, 1921, as the date for the next convention, and the report was adopted. Invitations were received from New York, Denver, San Francisco, Montgomery and New Orleans.

Legion and Organized Labor.

The stand of the legion in regard to organized labor was not mentioned in the report of the committee on resolutions. However, a minority report was submitted, which recommended that "the American Legion reiterate its well-known position, that it has no participation in controversies between capital and labor. The American Legion is not opposed to organized labor when it conducts itself as we believe it normally does, in conformity with law and order."

Resolution for Commander.

With the withdrawal of Milton J. Foreman, of Chicago, and Emmett O'Neil, of Kentucky, from the race for the national commandership last night, only two formidable candidates were in the field when today's convention opened.

to be good for all nations; the salvation of Germany, the salvation of France, the salvation of humanity itself, is to be conserved by the league of nations. The time has come for civilization to have some common sense and stop wasting its resources for the purpose of creating the means of human destruction. That is what your conscience tells you. What your prejudice tells you I do not know."

The Governor added that evidence.

The governor added that evidence which interrupted had been reading George Sylvester Viereck's writings and said that Mr. Viereck has promised to "deliver six million German votes to Senator Harding because of his attitude toward a German-American alliance."

Cox and "Bone Dry" Law.

Governor Cox in his speech here was asked by a member of his audience to state his attitude toward the Volstead act. His reply was: "I shall oppose any measure that is in conflict with the constitution of the United States and the eighteenth amendment as interpreted by the supreme court."

Asked at Yankton by an ex-serviceman what he proposed to do with the war risk insurance bureau.

Governor Cox answered: "If I intend to reorganize it the first week I am in the white house."

Someone in the audience also shouted: "What about Senator Harding's brewery stock?"

The governor replied that he owned no stock in Senator Harding's brewery and that the question had been answered by Senator Harding's private secretary, who admitted that the republican candidate had owned such stock.

Other questions asked the governor.

Governor Cox issued a statement at Yankton rebuking Senator Harding for the republican nominee's objection to questioning during the senator's speech in Baltimore last night.

The governor declared that the senator was asking the American people to follow him on the league issue when the senator himself did not know his own policy.

The statement was in part: "The candidate should welcome inquiries. I can understand how a member of a senatorial oligarchy, which throughout the years has defied public wishes and the public interest, would develop as a habit the thought that the senatorial mind should not be questioned."

In our campaign through the west, the purpose has been to counsel with the people, and in this experience I have not only welcomed but invited questions. I can understand how a candidate whose cause is indefensible and whose attitude is vacillating would avoid what the senator designates as discourtesy."

Senator Harding would have the American people follow him and ignore the intensive labors of enlightening men. His message to America is: "I know not where I am going. Before you follow me, I never before in the history of presidential campaigns has there developed a situation more deplorable and pitiable."

What an Employer Said

A man who has many employees said: "At the times when we reduce our forces, I always aim to keep those who I know are saving money. I can depend upon the thrifty man better than upon the spender."

If you are on a salary, remember that your employer's confidence is one of your important assets.

If he sees that you have the foresight to protect your own future, it is natural that he should believe in your ability to serve his interests well, and he will feel that you have settled, exemplary habits.

Trexler Loyal, Kellogg Villain, Widow Declares

In Pathetic Letter Wife of Slain Man Denies Reports She Had Been Circulated About Her and Her Husband.

Declaring her life with Leroy Trexler, the young taxi driver who was killed on September 10 near Griffin, was of the happiest, and that their love for each other was of a perfect nature, Mrs. Trexler has written a letter to The Constitution in which she asks that the public be informed as to the real reasons for the temporary separation that had come between her and her husband.

It was because of illness, declared Mrs. Trexler, that she had gone to the home of Trexler's parents in Lock Haven, and she further stated that she expected the young husband to join her within a short time.

Mrs. Trexler not only defends her dead husband from charges of liquor running, which she declared had been made against him, but declares he never knew the taste of whiskey. She also defends his fealty to his marriage vows, saying he was a "true and loyal boy."

Kellogg Denounced.

With reference to Jack L. Kellogg, Mrs. Trexler refers to him as a "villain," and expresses the hope that he will hang, which she declares is "too good for him."

The letter, which contains many pathetic expressions of a heartbroken wife, follows in full:

"No. 1 Alamo Avenue, Toronto, Ontario, Sept. 28, 1920.

"Editor Constitution:

"I have just finished reading an account of my husband's tragedy, in which a letter of mine was published, much to my regret. I know my friend, Mrs. Yeager, would understand it (knowing me), but am afraid the public in general would not, and therefore would appreciate it if you would enlighten all.

Husband Became Ill.

"My reason for saying I had suffered everything was Leroy and I were married on June 2, 1920, and shortly after our marriage he became ill and had not been well since, and I myself was quite ill, and owing to both of us feeling so miserable, we decided that a change of climate would perhaps be for the best. We left Atlanta just one week and a day prior to my husband's death, and I was expecting him to come to me very shortly.

"I mentioned to Mrs. Yeager that I would never forgive myself for leaving him, nor will I, to think I was so far away from him when he met his death—and at the hands of such a villain! I sat at the time with my husband's parents at Lock Haven. He wished me to go there and await his arrival.

"I also note where it is stated my husband was implicated with 'whiskey sellers,' which is quite untrue, as my husband never knew what the taste of liquor was, and many of his friends will also verify this statement.

"As a husband he was a true and loyal boy, and regarding the statement as to his being with Mrs. Kellogg, that again is quite untrue, for as I have said before, he was too young to be married.

More Than Heart-Broken.

"I am more than heart-broken, and you can imagine how I feel, reading such statements as have appeared, and would greatly appreciate it if you would publish in some way just why we were away from one another. It would have been but a short while, for I fully expected Leroy to come to me the week after I left. I feel as though through that letter the general public will think there was not all badness in our lives, but there was love, and other very dear things, but as said, unfortunately we were both ill. But we certainly lived for one another.

"I sincerely hope Kellogg will hang, and even that is too good for him! I am very sorry for his wife, but certainly feel that he is guilty."

"Trusting you will make a publication in your paper advising just why we were separated and letting the public know how perfectly happy we were together, and thanking you I remain in love with you.

"Very Respectfully,
"MRS. LEROY S. TREXLER."

The Restless Sex

BY ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Stephanie wrote that she had graduated, but that as her aunt was ill she would remain for the present at the hospital.

He felt that he ought to go back. And did not. He was in a dreadfully involved dilemma with his new novel, "Renunciation"—all about a woman—one of the sort he never had met—and no wonder he was in a mess! Besides that, and in spite of the gaily colored line of his new dress, he felt that he was not yet as far along as that in his education.

He had a desperate affair with an engaging woman of the real world—a creature who took excellent care of herself, had a delightful time with Cleland, and in gratitude opened his eyes to the literary morass in which he had been wading.

Cleland, witty, charming, very lovely to look upon, she read and criticized what he wrote, discussed, consulted, advised, and, with exquisite tact, divining the boy's real talent, led him deftly to solid ground, and left him there, contented, miserable, inspired, heart-broken, with a laughing admonition to get on with his work.

She enjoyed her husband's new post at the embassy in Sofia.

But I don't know. I am old-fashioned except in theory. I have professed the creed of the new feminism; I have in my time—and very properly—denounced the tyranny and selfishness and injustice of man-made laws which fetter and cripple my sex.

But—at heart—and with not very many days left to me—I am too old, too near my end, not to feel that the old regime, with all its drawbacks, was safer for women, productive of better results, less hazardous, less threatening.

These are unconventional times. A new freedom is dawning, and to me the dawn seems threatening. I am too old, too near my end, not to feel that the old regime, with all its drawbacks, was safer for women, productive of better results, less hazardous, less threatening.

These are unconventional times. A new freedom is dawning, and to me the dawn seems threatening. I am too old, too near my end, not to feel that the old regime, with all its drawbacks, was safer for women, productive of better results, less hazardous, less threatening.

But I don't know. I am old-fashioned except in theory. I have professed the creed of the new feminism; I have in my time—and very properly—denounced the tyranny and selfishness and injustice of man-made laws which fetter and cripple my sex.

But—at heart—and with not very many days left to me—I am too old, too near my end, not to feel that the old regime, with all its drawbacks, was safer for women, productive of better results, less hazardous, less threatening.

$866,280 DEFICIT OF WILLINGHAM CO.

$666,737 Loss Traced to Speculation in Cotton Futures, Report of Receivers Will Show, It Is Said.

Macon, Ga., September 28.—(Special.)—The Willingham Warehouse company, of which R. F. Willingham was president, lost $666,737.07 in speculation in cotton futures during the period from January to June in 1919, will be shown in the schedule of assets and liabilities of the Willingham warehouse, which will be filed by the receivers in the United States district court not later than Friday of this week, it is said. From lawyers in the case, it is understood that the deficits of the warehouse company will be shown to be approximately $866,280.

Mr. Willingham is now in a private institution in the east, having suffered a nervous breakdown as a result of his financial troubles.

During the month June 1919, the losses on cotton futures, according to the report, accounts with six cotton brokers showed profits of $50,618. Instead of applying these profits, the books of the company show that the stockholders of the company, R. F. Willingham and R. H. Sissons, took it. The company purchased a seat on the New Orleans cotton exchange for Mr. Willingham on July 1919, for which $11,600 was paid.

Other Losses.

In addition to the losses by speculation in cotton futures, other losses during the year 1919 bring the total to $700,775.68, while the report shows that the company operated during 1920 until the financial crash came a loss of $95,421.82. The total deficit shown by the report is $866,280.71, less than the capital stock, which makes the net deficit of $766,280.71.

The report of the auditors shows that the Willingham Warehouse company was organized in January, 1909, the capital stock being $50,000. In 1916 it is shown that the plant was operated at a loss of $54,404.04, and yet the books showed a net profit of $5,595.96. To produce this difference of $60,000, it is charged, a book entry of $60,000 was made against the Spinnery Cotton company.

In 1917, it is charged further, the books were not properly closed, and instead of a profit of $2,243.76, as the books were made to show, the audit showed that a true result was a net loss greater than the previous year. In 1918 the books showed a loss of $35,808.88, and in 1919, a loss of $5,120.17. To this is added the losses through speculation in cotton futures, making a total of $671,857.24 for the year. No formal dividend was declared for the year 1919, but on June 16, 1919, it is claimed R. F. Willingham and R. H. Sissons drew $50,618 out of the inventory of the company in the nature of a cash dividend exceeding 100 per cent.

The waste department operated by the warehouse company was also insolvent, it will be shown by the report, it is said. The assets of the department are placed at $144,543.19, while the liabilities are placed at $194,511.97. The Willingham Warehouse company is indebted to the waste department in the sum of $73,511.97, and there is a deficit of $49,968.78 in this account.

A condensed table of the liabilities and assets of the Willingham warehouse follows:

CONTRACT GIVEN FOR CONSTRUCTION AT CAMP BENNING

Columbus, Ga., September 28.—(Special.)—Private telegrams received in the city today from Washington announced that the contract to complete buildings at Camp Benning was awarded to the Selden Brock Construction company, of St. Louis and Atlanta, which had the general contractor when the building of this great military school was begun two years ago. The winning bid was $743,000.

The company will begin work at Benning almost immediately, completing numerous barracks and other buildings on which construction automatically stopped a year ago when funds ran out. This will be the second phase of construction at Benning which, as a completed project, will represent an investment of $25,000,000. Between 600 and 700 men will be employed on this work. Major A. C. Doyle is constructing quartermaster.

For residence use a telephone and electric table lamp have been combined, the transmitter being hidden under the lamp shade when it is not in use.

Mothers to Be Asked To Tell of Exchange Of Babies at Grady

The "mixed baby" case, which has been set for hearing several times, has been again postponed, this time from Thursday, September 30, to Thursday, October 7, at which time the writ of habeas corpus brought by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Garner to obtain Louise Madeline, whom both mothers claim, from Mr. and Mrs. Daniel L. Pittman, will be heard in the Fulton superior court.

William Arnaud, of counsel for the petitioners, stated Tuesday that he had talked with twelve women who had their babies temporarily exchanged while patients at the Grady hospital. These mothers will be called as witnesses for the plaintiffs when the case is tried. Mr. Arnaud says he would like to talk with or get the names of other women who were given the wrong baby any time during their stay at Grady.

"Good Morning, Judge," In Real Application By Costumeless Actress

Savannah, Ga., September 28.—(Special.)—It was "Good Morning, Judge," in life off the stage here yesterday morning about 1 o'clock, when the manager of the theatrical company playing under that title, hurriedly appealed to the municipal court judge, before their train left Savannah, to issue a warrant for the arrest of a woman who had stolen the leading lady's trunk.

The stage carpenter had been fired and had, it was alleged, appropriated the costume trunk of the actress, refusing to give it up or the check for it. The issue of an early morning warrant effected an adjustment.

DEMON RUM GIVEN AS DIVORCE CAUSES BY UNHAPPY WIVES

Whisky was given as grounds for divorce in three suits filed in the Fulton superior court Tuesday.

Mrs. Agnes Adele Taylor, in her suit against William P. Taylor, set out that he drank and treated her cruelly; that he grabbed her and jerked her about, and threatened to kill both her and himself. She further alleges that he finally attempted to commit suicide.

Mrs. Katie Acree charged that A. T. Acree drank a great deal and that last Saturday he attempted to kill her with a bed slat. She declared that he also failed to support her and their two children.

Mrs. Lula J. Morris set out in a cross bill for divorce from John W. Morris who recently brought suit against her, that her husband threw away his money on whisky and that she and one of her children were forced to go to work.

Sightless Coroner Identifies Worthless Slip Passed as Check

Americus, Ga., September 28.—(Special.)—Henry Otin, alias Over-all Charlie, has just been sentenced to serve twelve months on the chain gang by Judge William M. Harper, after a conviction of cheating at billiards, in the city court of Americus. Otin was convicted of passing a worthless piece of newspaper on Ed Jenkins, blind coroner of Sumter county, for a $1 bill. Testifying in the case, the blind coroner identified the piece of paper alleged to have been given him. Several other pieces of paper handed him by attorneys were immediately rejected by Jenkins after he had carefully felt them.

PROMINENT TAXI MAN URGES CITY LICENSES

For Every Auto Driver—To Be Issued Only After Careful Examination.

All drivers of automobiles should be regularly examined and licensed, says E. C. Bryant, of the Bryant Taxi company, concerning various means of lessening the fatalities from reckless, careless or ignorant driving, which have agitated Atlanta recently. This regular, careful examination into the driving ability of a person who wishes to run his own car will save much in life and property, he says.

"In New York," said Mr. Bryant, "every man, woman or child who drives a car is required to stand a regular examination and take out a license. This applies to private owners as well as to commercial or professional drivers.

"The examination is conducted by a regular board of examiners. It is conducted on the type of car which the applicant is to use. If he is going to drive more than one type of car, he has to stand a separate examination for each type.

"It takes three days for an applicant to get through his examinations, which show if he is familiar with the car and its mechanism, and capable of driving it under all conditions of traffic and over all kinds of streets, day and night. Either in his own car or in one like it, he drives about the city with one or more members of the examining board as passengers.

"When he gets his New York license, he is a capable driver—or he doesn't get the license.

"In Atlanta, a man can buy a car and go to the salesroom and get it and drive it away, the dealer perhaps having got his license for him.

"It usually is incapable driving by an unskilled driver that causes accidents—the kind of driver who would not be given a license for driving if he had to stand a rigid examination to get it. I don't employ a man to drive for me until I or one of my mechanics have watched him drive under all conditions in the car he is going to use.

Register With McLendon.

All corporations operating in Georgia are now registering in the secretary of state's office as required by the legislative act of 1906 according to an announcement Tuesday afternoon by S. Guym McLendon.

Up until 1906, Georgia had no law requiring corporations to make returns, but this year the legislature passed an act which requires all such concerns, domestic and foreign, operating in the state to register every twelve months in the office of the secretary of state, giving the date and place of incorporation, the amount of capital stock and principal place of business.

With 155 counties in the state and a court in each granting charters, the reason for this law is to bring together in one place complete list of all active corporations, and this information is placed in the hands of the comptroller general, so that he may see that all make the proper tax returns.

The fee for registering the first year is $1 and 50 cents for each year thereafter. The corporations have until November 1 to register, and penalty for failing to do so is a $50 fine.

Will There Be Extra Session?

Will the governor call an extra session of the state legislature? This is the question which is being asked every day at the state capitol, and the chief executive will probably make his decision some time this week, according to a statement he made recently.

It is known that the heads of the various state institutions have written the governor asking him to provide financial relief for the schools, and if an extra session is necessary to issue the proper proclamation. In addition to this demand, the governor is also being urged to call an extra session for the purpose of passing an enabling suffrage act for women.

Connor Assumes Duties.

Tom Connor will take up his duties as chief examiner under the Georgia securities commission Monday. Secretary of State McLendon, who is chairman, announced Tuesday, and an immediate investigation of all companies and individuals applying for permission to sell stock in Georgia will be made.

Mr. Connor was formerly connected with The Constitution, and has been on a vacation during the past several weeks. The Georgia securities commission was created by the last legislature and takes the place of the old "blue sky" law.

EUROPE POOR RISK FOR UNITED STATES

R. W. Boyden, American Representative, Tells the Brussels Conference. Boyden Presents View of Wilson.

Brussels, September 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—The session of the world financial conference today which had promised to be colorless developed two unexpected features in the appearance before the delegates of Roland W. Boyden, the American unofficial representative, and Herr Bergmann, of Germany, whose speeches commanded keenest attention and applause of equal fervor. The American and German attracted the first full galleries of the conference.

When the afternoon proceedings began President Ador said that some of the delegates had expressed a desire that the American representative should be heard out of turn. Word of this spread quickly through the lobbies of the auditorium and the galleries were filled in a few minutes as Mr. Boyden walked to the speaker's stand with the greatest curiosity by all the delegates, who listened with closest attention especially to the passages in which he reminded them of the had features of the European situation today. Mr. Boyden explained why Europe is not under present conditions considered by the United States a good business risk.

Mr. Boyden referred the delegates to the letter of former Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass to Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in which Mr. Glass declared in effect that the United States could not undertake to finance further requirements of Europe. The letter, Mr. Boyden said, represented the attitude of President Wilson.

Herr Bergmann declared that under the terms of the treaty of Versailles Germany is obliged to view reparation in the light of a foreign debt.

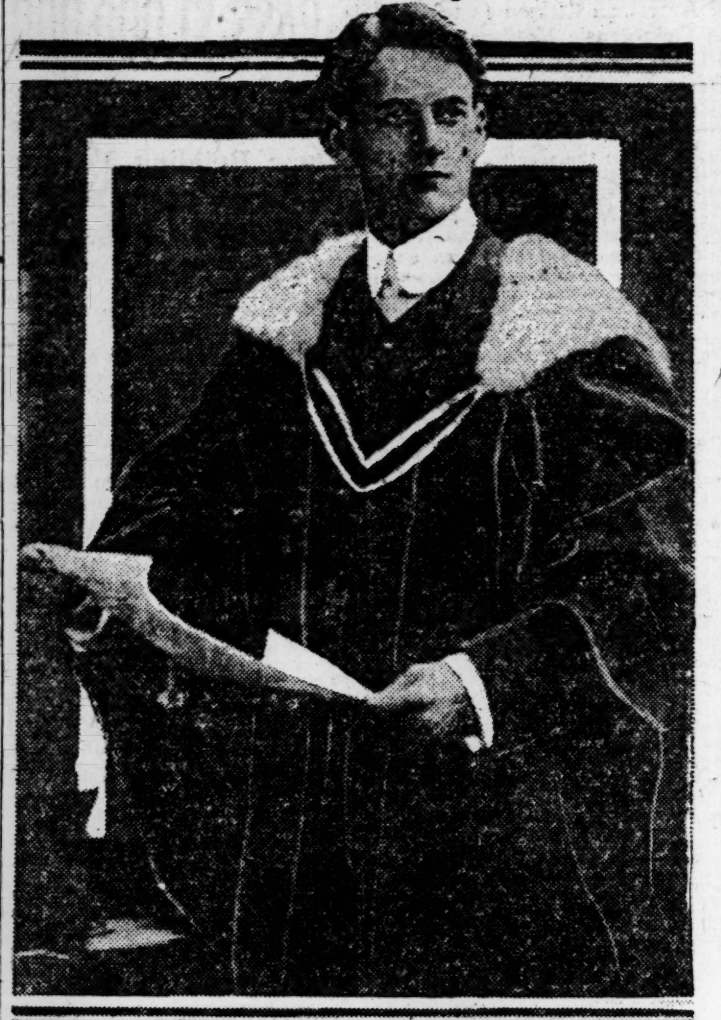

He believes that Europe will recover from her deplorable financial condition "only by obeying the laws of economics and finance, and deprecating 'any artificial means of hastening the rehabilitation of the various countries.'"

The German financier was very lukewarm over the advisability of a loan to Germany. "It would probably do nothing more than to increase inflation," Germany simply must work out her destiny by herself, by hard work and by economy."

SUITS ARE DEMURRED IN ALABAMA COURT

Anniston, Ala., September 28.—(Special.)—Two damage suits for $5,000 each, filed against former Chief of Police L. L. Phillips by E. M. Lewis and J. M. Mather, have been demurred out of the circuit court by S. W. Tate, city attorney, acting for the former police chief. The suits were filed two years ago. One damage suit against the city remains to be settled, that of Arce Dial, who is suing the city and City Engineer C. W. Cooper for $1,000 damages, alleged to have been sustained in stepping on a nail in passing some work being done by the city.

Doctors of Atlanta Differ On MacSwiney's Case

Lord Mayor Terence MacSwiney in his robes of office.

"Entirely Possible for the Mayor of Cork to Have Gone Without Food This Long," Says One Expert. "It's Impossible," Declares Another.

Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, Ireland, has gone forty-seven days without food. This is a miracle of fortitude and principle, a thing unheard of scientifically. MacSwiney is already a hero and will probably be a martyr.

"Someone is slipping food to MacSwiney—perhaps in concentrated form, perhaps stealthily in more substantial quantities—but it is certain that his system could not have withstood the lack of nourishment for this period of time."

Thus argues the mind of the layman, and so—though in more scientifically couched language—argue those whose study and research make them most capable of delivering an opinion. Atlanta physicians, approached on the topic, vary as do laymen; again scientists fail to agree.

For instance, one doctor of Atlanta, ranked high among the specialists of the south who have devoted their time and thought to the functioning of the human stomach, says: "It is entirely possible that MacSwiney has lived thus far without food. There have been cases prior to his wherein a fast of forty days was withstood successfully."

Others typify the view for a typhoid patient to go for five or six weeks practically unfed, and then there is the undoubted autopsic case of Dr. Henry S. Tanner, who, under the supervision of a New York medical school, went for forty days without food. Dr. Tanner was forty-seven years of age at this time, in 1899, and he lived to be eighty-seven.

"So it is possible that the Irish mayor has fasted for more than forty days. His length of life is dependent entirely on the tissues of his body. If he was in good health before the beginning of his abstinence, his tissues will burn out much more slowly than if he was in rather poor physical shape. Of course, it is true that he is wasting his entire system, but his retention of life is entirely within scientific possibility."

The Opposing View. Then there is this opposing view from an Atlanta physician of years of experience, and equally as well known for his capability as a stomach specialist. Both of these men asked that their names be omitted from the publication of their opinion, for obvious reasons of ethics and lack of controversial desires.

"It is impossible," says the doctor who believes that MacSwiney has been receiving some sort of sustenance. "For the reason, chiefly, that MacSwiney is said to be still conscious. Had he lost consciousness, as would have been natural, I would refrain from stating that I believe it impossible, but reports say that he is still conscious."

"Take the accounts we have read and heard of men shipwrecked, who have been forced to go without food for three or four days, even. They are always found in an unconscious state, and in many instances have resorted to cannibalism and even to cannibalism in their demoralized state. It is said that MacSwiney is entirely conscious and in his right mind—no delirium."

On Practical Basis. The human system, after all, is run on a practical basis, and can easily be compared to a commercial project. The body, unfed and unexercised, may run for a time on its reserve, but this reserve, like the reserve of a business concern, is quickly run through, if not replaced in the proper manner. As soon as the reserve is exhausted the business and the human system begin an inroad on their capital, and of course this is quickly disastrous.

"There is no doubt in my mind that he is being covertly fed, and this opinion, I think, is concurred in by men much better qualified to state their thoughts than I."

NEGROES MAY TAKE PLACE OF ASIATICS IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, September 28.—The possibility of negroes taking the place of Asiatics as farm workers in California, was discussed today at the convention of the Industrial and Commercial Council of the people of African descent.

W. H. Sanders, a Los Angeles delegate, said he was in direct touch with at least five thousand negroes who will come to California to take up truck gardening in case and lowest relative of the Asiatics are barred from further colonization in this state. He said the workmen would be African graduates of the agricultural department of Tuskegee institute.

Capital was subscribed for a cooperative company to market products of negro farmers through grocery stores to be established in negro communities. An "address to the American people" was issued in which the convention declared labor to be the greatest asset of people of African descent and that "brain, brawn, a few acres, a mill wheel and a smokestack, with unimpaired faith in God Almighty will make any race of people happy and comfortable."

It was further stated that "we affirm our faith in the people of African descent and unflinchingly declare ourselves in the field of competition with our Caucasian neighbors for the restoration of rights."

POPULATION FIGURES GIVEN FOR FOUR STATES

Washington, September 28.—Four states, the 1920 population of which were announced today by the census bureau, showed gradual declines in their respective relative increases over preceding decades.

Illinois has a population of 4,485,084, an increase of $4,507, or 15.6 per cent over 1910. The state is expected to maintain its rank as the third most populous state, although its 1920 population shows the lowest relative increase in the state's history, falling short of the 1910 percentage increase by 1.9.

Louisiana, with a population of 1,797,798, increased 141,410, or 8.5 percent over 1910. The state showed both its smallest numerical and relative increases since 1870. Its 1920 rank cannot be determined until other states which ranked directly above or beneath it in 1910 have been announced.

Montana, with a population of 547,532, showed an increase of 171,540, or 45.6 per cent over 1910. This was the state's largest numerical increase, but its percentage increase was the lowest, falling short of its previous lowest relative increase of 1910 by 8.5. The state ranked fourth in 1910, but has passed New Hampshire in the 1920 rank.

New Mexico's population was announced as 280,747, an increase of 32,946, or 10.1 per cent over 1910. The figures show the state to have made the lowest numerical increase since 1880, when the growth was 27,691, and the second lowest relative increase in its history. New Mexico ranged as forty-fourth state in 1910, but passed Vermont in this census.

Other figures follow: Hattiesburg, Miss., 13,270; increase 1,537, or 13.1 per cent. Cook county, Illinois, containing Chicago, 2,652,017; increase 441,749, or 26.9 per cent. Lucas county, Ohio, containing Toledo, 275,721; increase $2,922, or 43.1 per cent.

Monroe county, New York, containing Rochester, 352,034; increase 68,882, or 24.3 per cent. Wilson, N. C. (revised), 10,612. Previously announced as 10,652.

VETO OF BUDGET BILL ATTACKED BY HARDING

Republican Candidate Says One of His First Moves, if Elected, Will Be to Ask for Budget System Wilson Rejected.

Wheeling, W. Va., September 23.—Declaring that democratic extravagance and mismanagement had brought the nation to the brink of financial disaster, Senator Warren G. Harding told an audience of several thousand here tonight that the republican party proposed to inaugurate a policy of economy and efficiency that would put the whole federal government on a sound business basis.

The republican nominee quoted treasury department figures to support his charge of unwarranted expenditures and asserted that one effect of the administration's proposal for a new issue of treasury certificates would be to further handicap the money market and to increase the cost of living. He scored President Wilson for his veto of the budget bill passed by the last republican congress and promised that a budget system would be one of the first policies inaugurated by a new republican administration.

"Unless we check the existing system of waste and extravagance," he continued, "we shall run head-on into disaster. We have heard during the last few days from the democratic administration at Washington that it needs money, more money, always more money. And during these same days we have heard from a democratic candidate that if he is elected to the presidency he will give to the people of this country a budget system such as the present president, with whom he says he is in accord, rejected last June."

Six speakers in West Virginia. The republican nominee's speech here was the sixth he had delivered during the day in West Virginia. Crossing from Baltimore during the morning, he made short rear-platform talks to crowds at Grafton, Fairmont, Mannington, Cameron and Moundsville, assailing the labor provisions of the peace treaty and declaring that the democratic administration might greatly ease the coal situation if it chose by invoking the coal allotment provisions of the Cummins-Ischur railway bill.

In his night speech here, Senator Harding said the public debt had increased from $24,295,321,467 on June 30 to $24,234,672,122 on August 31, and that the deficit for the last year would have been nearer three billions than one billion, had not the republican congress cut down administration requests for appropriations.

Referring to the proposal for a new treasury certificate issue, the senator declared it was time the people inquired into the administration's method of financing if the nation was to be saved from serious consequences.

"It is obvious," he continued, "that when the government of the United States offers 5 1/2 and 6 per cent for money, the effect is to drive higher and higher rates on industrial and business loans and thereby to increase the cost of doing business and consequently the cost of living."

Industrial reports from one end of the country to the other indicate a falling off in business, a straggling in the money market. These conditions are due either directly or indirectly to the gigantic failure of the democratic administration. It has drawn the very lifeblood from the channels of business to keep itself alive—a process which, if continued, will inevitably produce the collapse of our industrial system."

The senator spoke to a tumultuous crowd which packed the last square inch of the Wheeling auditorium, while thousands more batted in the streets outside for admission.

From the time of his arrival here in the early afternoon the repu-lican presidential nominee was besieged with howling throngs and during the auditorium address his words again and again awakened an avalanche of applause.

Aisles Were Jammed.
Long before the hour for the address all of the five thousand seats in the hall were taken and hundreds jammed the aisles.

The dense and tumultuous was the crowd along the line from the senator's hotel to the auditorium that which his car and chauffeur carried Mrs. Harding were lost for a time in traffic jams. Mrs. Harding, going by circuitous route, reached the hall first and was given an ovation as she was pushed through the crowded aisles up to the platform. When the nominee arrived the great crowd rose and cheered.

In a reference to the crowds which had come to Wheeling to hear him, Senator Harding told his auditorium audience why he had preferred the front porch campaign.

"It wasn't because I did not desire to come to you and preach the gospel of Americanism from the republican standpoint," he said. "I've been doing that all my life, that's why I'm a nominee for president. But I chose to speak from the front porch over at Marion for the very reason that I have encountered here in Wheeling today. I didn't like to disappoint any one. When I come to your city I find the tide of republican running high and there are 30,000 people in Wheeling who want to hear the republican candidate. I don't like to disappoint them; but only about five thousand of us can crowd in here."

"One thing I could do in Marion was that I could talk to virtually all of the American people through the medium of the great American press."

"I think the American people have heard, I know they have heard in Maine, and I think they have heard everywhere and have recognized a policy of economy and efficiency that would put the whole federal government on a sound business basis."

Child Welfare Committee Entertained by Mrs. Elder

The child welfare committee of the Atlanta Woman's club held the first meeting of the club year yesterday afternoon at the home of the newly appointed chairman, Mrs. Omar F. Elder.

The evening was called to order at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Elder presiding, and following her word of welcome and a glowing tribute to Mrs. Thomas, the able president, who inaugurated the child welfare work in the Woman's club. She also expressed regret that ill health had deprived the committee of the active leadership of their most capable chairman, Mrs. Thornwell Jacobs, who has so thoroughly organized the work during her period of service.

Mrs. Elder announced that the most vital needs of the committee at present, and the only work for which concrete plans have been made, are the benefit bridge and the Christmas trees and urged the committee's immediate support of both projects. She stated further that the child welfare committee had many calls from month to month during the year for assistance in establishing health centers or public school lunch stands—again calls for clothing, milk for babies, tuition funds and other crying needs. These calls being handled as they present themselves, form a large part of child welfare work.

Mrs. Elder announced that the most vital needs of the committee at present, and the only work for which concrete plans have been made, are the benefit bridge and the Christmas trees and urged the committee's immediate support of both projects. She stated further that the child welfare committee had many calls from month to month during the year for assistance in establishing health centers or public school lunch stands—again calls for clothing, milk for babies, tuition funds and other crying needs. These calls being handled as they present themselves, form a large part of child welfare work.

most valuable annexation to the committee, has been made chairman of a clothing committee who will handle all calls of destitute children in need of clothing.

Mrs. Hamilton Douglas, the club parliamentarian, was asked to serve the committee in the same capacity. Mrs. Douglas is the much-imposed-upon authority, without whom the club could hardly get on. She spoke encouragingly to the committee and wished a prosperous year.

Mrs. Mary Freeman will serve as chairman of the moving picture committee of this welfare work. Mrs. Freeman is a recent resident of Atlanta, and has become an active member of the Woman's club.

Mrs. Elder announced that two of the committee's most capable chairmen are out of the city, Mrs. Victor Krieger and Mrs. William Healey. It is hoped that they will continue their efforts for the committee in the capacity of chairmen of playgrounds and chairman of education, respectively.

Mrs. Elder asked the following women of experience to act as an advisory board: Mrs. Irving Thomas, Mrs. Thornwell Jacobs, Mrs. A. McEl Wilson, Mrs. Alonso Richardson, Mrs. Harry Hermance and Mrs. Hamilton Douglas.

After the introduction of the committee heads, each gave a brief outline of plans for the year.

State Chairman.
Mrs. Howard McCall, who is state chairman of child welfare, then spoke to the committee, telling of the plans from Washington for child welfare work to be conducted in all sections. Dr. De Vilbiss, state director for Georgia, also spoke along these lines, both giving advice and assistance in every possible way to make the work successful.

Mrs. Irving Thomas, the beloved president of the club, assured the committee that the best year in its history is before them. She presented several needy cases to the body whose appeals had come directly to her.

Mrs. Thornwell Jacobs, the recently retired chairman, under whose leadership the committee became so thoroughly organized and did such remarkable work, read a letter from Miss Hattie Moore, city director of playgrounds. In speaking to the committee, Mrs. Jacobs urged that, regardless of other demands, the work with the playgrounds be continued. She urged the members to consider the crying need for the playgrounds and how materially they had been assisted by our experienced, Mrs. Victor Krieger and Mrs. Jacobs.

Mrs. Jacobs also stressed the attention of the committee as to work on the playgrounds and to work each year for the success of the annual reception planned for the teachers of Atlanta.

Mrs. B. M. Boykin spoke of the auditorium fund which is so rapidly rising and asked the committee to help Mrs. Goodhart with her work.

Informal Tea.
After the business session the guests were served from a beautifully appointed tea table—the covering of which was a Madeira cloth with lace insets and a border of fillet and cluny. A silver basket filled with yellow dahlias graced the center and unshaded tapers in yellow burned in silver candlesticks. Candles and bonbons in yellow were placed in silver compotes and sandwiches and sweets on silver stands.

Mrs. Elder was beautifully gown in dark brown satin with sash and trimmings of tomato colored satin.

A group of pretty young friends of the hostess, who served punch, were Mrs. J. J. Chambers, Mrs. J. B. Coppedge and Mrs. John W. Yopp, and assisting Mrs. Elder were a group of the younger members of the committee, including Mrs. Claude M. Frederick, Mrs. Eugene Harrington, Miss Evelyn Stephens, Mrs. Barnard Boykin, Mrs. Robert Martin, Mrs. Russell Bridges, Mrs. Casper Johnson, Mrs. Harold Rogers, Mrs. J. Lucas Baird, Mrs. Joseph Heard, Jr., and Mrs. E. W. Alfriend.

Nation's Finest Golfers Are Bound for Atlanta For Southern Open Here

AMATEUR-PRO TOURNAMENT.
Willie Ogg, professional of the East Lake Country club, where the southern open golf championship will be fought out, stated last night that the second of the preliminary matches will be staged today. This particular match between the amateur and pro tournament is the first of a series of three which will be played over the course.

The tournament will be worked out in this way: each amateur paired with a professional, and the matches are played to the best four holes. As the amateurs will have a handicap of twelve strokes each, there should be plenty of opportunity for the local hopefuls to cop a prize or two.

The entrance fee will be $5, and there are no restrictions on the entrants. You don't have to be entered in the open, and you don't have to be one of the stars.

A telephone call to Willie Ogg, at the East Lake clubhouse, will be enough to make you a contestant.

If you can't find him by phone, just go on out to the course and give in your name. The play will be continued throughout the day, so if you can't come in the morning, do it after lunch.

Beyond the shadow of a doubt this will be the big day for the arrival of golfers in Atlanta for the "open" of the southern opens ever held. Every train, no matter what line, leaving point or destination, calling a halt in Atlanta will carry its full quota of golf notables bound for the East Lake course.

About 6 o'clock, or soon thereafter, the clanging of bells announced the arrival of a golf bus-laden Pullman from New York, jammed with entries to swell the list of the southern open when it opens Thursday morning. Among this coterie Freddie McLeod was a famous figure. He boarded the train at Washington and was joined at Louisville by W. P. Goebel and at Charlotte by R. H. Craig.
James McKelvie was also an arrival last night, coming from Chal-tanooga.

Hutchinson Is Here.
Jack Hutchinson was an arrival earlier in the day. Jim Barnes was on Monday's list of "ins" and last night brought in Hampton and who heard Cicotte's statement to the grand jury. The Reds won this game by a score of 2 to 0. Ring pitching for Cincinnati, holding the American league champions to three hits. Both Cincinnati runs were made in the fifth inning, when two of Cincinnati's hits were bunched with a wild throw to first by Ci-cotte. The Cincinnati pitcher was pitched by Jackson, who the pitcher intercepted and muffed. The play of the Cincinnati pitcher was described by the Associated Press wires as follows:

"Rough was out, Schalk to Gandil, the ball rolling fast, Cicotte was pitcher's box. Duncan was safe when Cicotte threw his drive wide to first, the first ball going to the stand and Duncan reaching second. Ring singled to left and Duncan stopped at third, but scores when Jackson threw wild to the plate. Ring reached second. Correction—The official score is that Cicotte the error for muffed Jackson's throw. Neale sent one over Jackson's head and Ring scored. Neale reached second. It was a two-base hit. Wingo out, Ed Collins to Gandil. Neale going to third. Ring drove a vicious grounder that Ed Collins got and threw him out at first. Two runs; two hits; two errors."

The rest of the game was played sharply and, so far as the records show, clearly. Cicotte pitched through the nine innings.

Cicotte Wins Sixth.
Cicotte's next appearance in the series was in the sixth game, when Cincinnati had four victories to its credit against one defeat. Richard Ring, the diminutive left-handed pitcher, having shut out the National league champions in the third game.

The veteran twirler who had just confessed the big gambling deal, went through nine innings and held his opponents to seven hits.
Chicago won the game, 4 to 1. Bi-tting Salles had in the first five innings. Jackson and Felsch each got two hits and between them drove in all of Chicago's runs.
Billy Maharg, Philadelphia prizefighter, who last night, in Philadelphia issued a statement connecting Cicotte with the gambling game, charged that Abe Attell, former fighter, headed the gambling double-crossed by Attell, and never received $100,000, which had been promised them. It was late in the series before they found this out.
Maharg asserted, as Attell kept postponing the day of settlement, saying he needed the money to bet.
Besides the two defeats registered against Cicotte in the sixth, three others were chalked up against Claude Williams. The latter, a "side-arm" pitcher, was wild in the second and fifth games, when he went to the Reds, 4 to 2 and 6 to 0.
In the eighth and ninth games, in which he was found for four solid hits in the title of world champions the first inning, and that game and recorded as the cause of his defeat, the record of the second game saying:

Hits at Opportune Times.
"While Cincinnati obtained only four hits, these came at opportune times, when they had been ceech-ed by bases on balls off Williams." The fifth game of the series was a shutout triumph for Hod Eller, the big "sling-ball" expert of the Cincinnati pitching staff. Only three hits were made off him, and he established a world series record by striking out the side in two successive innings. All told, Eller had nine strikeouts that day.

Four of Cincinnati's five runs were grouped in the sixth inning.
Eller doubled, Rath scored him with a single, and moved to second on Hubert "Bunt," perfectly laid," as the report of the game said. Williams walked Groh. Rousch drove a three-base hit to Felsch's territory, scoring two runners, and himself tallied after Duncan filed to Jackson.

Both Cicotte and Jackson were cloaked with the grand jurors for a considerable time today and later court officials reported that they told their stories in substantial detail. As they left the room they were taken in custody by detectives of the state's attorney's office.
Their detention was not in the nature of an arrest, and it was announced that they would be released later.

Maharg Corroborated.
Cicotte, who earlier in the day, had vehemently denied any part in the alleged plot as described by Maharg at Philadelphia, admitted on the stand, officials of the court

Hackney, Bobby Jones, Douglas Edgar, Canadian open title holder; Willie Ogg, well-known professional; and a long roster of near stars of the city, have been on hand, swapping their striking arms into shape and are welcoming the incoming celebrities.

By noon today, the East Lake course will be filled with the visiting notables, looking over the house, dubbing over the course and examining minutely the hazards and traps and the tricky island rough. Tuesday the tournament scene of many matches among the first-comers.

When the first pair tee off Thursday morning there will be a large gallery on the sidelines, witnessing the first drive, and all during the three days of the tournament the galleries will watch with bated breath the matches, as each play a large bunch of notables, who have wired their entries, but as yet have not arrived at the scene of action, is yet to come. Among them are Walter Hagen, open champion of last year, Tom Armour, Scott and French title-holder, Wilfred Reid, C. W. Hackney, T. R. Mc-Donald, J. C. Davidson, Jack Burgess, George Livingston, and others. These are all expected to get in some time today.

Eighteen holes of play will constitute the program for Thursday.
The second eighteen-hole matches will be continued Friday and Saturday will be the most eventful, as thirty-six holes will be run off. The tournament will be medal play and the lowest score for the three days of play will decide the winner.

Championship Flight Saturday.
The championship flight will be determined Friday by the scores of the two days. The winners of the two days will qualify for the championship flight.

The public is invited to attend the tournament and it is expected that a large number of golf enthusiasts and those who have only a mild interest in the game, will avail themselves of the opportunity to see the world's greatest golfers in action.

The course is in tip-top shape and an enormous amount of work and energy has been expended in putting the finishing touches on the greens and fairways. Scott Hudson has been handling the course with minute care and has accomplished the task of putting it on a par with other of the best courses in the country, where championship events have been staged this year.

It is said that Philadelphia's story was substantially correct.

The court officials also quoted Cicotte as saying that "Chick" Gandil, who, he said, was interested in the dealings with the gamblers, "had double-crossed" them, and that Ma-harg's story was the first intimation that Attell had "held out" on the $100,000, which had been promised them.

The eight players named in the true bills had been with the White Sox for periods ranging from four to nine years. Cicotte himself was purchased from Boston in 1912, for the waiver price. Joe Jackson was sent to the White Sox in 1915 for a large sum in cash and some players in trade. Felsch was purchased from Milwaukee, of the American association, in 1914. McMullin from Los Angeles in 1916; Williams from Salt Lake City in 1918, and Weaver from York, Pa., in 1911. The purchase price of the eight, paid by Cicotte, represents a tidy fortune.

Probe to Continue.
The investigation by the grand jury will continue until all phases of baseball gambling have been bared, it was said by officials. The investigation started two weeks ago following reports that a game played here August 31, by the Cubs and the Philadelphia Nationals, "was fixed," and the inquiry into last year's world series came up only as an incident to the other inquiry.

Assistant State's Attorney Hartley Replie, in charge of the case, said tonight that indictments to be drawn on today's true bills may contain several counts. The true bills themselves specified only one count of offense, "conspiracy to commit an illegal act." The penalty provided upon conviction on this count would be one to five years in the penitentiary and a fine of not more than $10,000.

"This is just the beginning," Mr.
Replie said tonight. "We will have more indictments within a few days and before we get through we will have purged organized baseball of everything that is crooked and dishonest."

"We are going after the gamblers now. There will be indictments within a few days against men in Philadelphia, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Des Moines, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and other cities. More baseball players also will be indicted. We've got the goods on these men and we are going the limit."

Harry Grabner, secretary of the White Sox, announced that the club would play out the schedule run the end if it had to "employ Chinamen" to fill the vacancies in the team.

Possible Line-up.
Followers of the White Sox figured immediately on the probable line-up of the team in the three remaining games of the season, starting in St. Louis Friday. Information filtering from the club management indicated the following possible line-up:

Jordan, first base; Ed Collins, second base; McClelland, shortstop; John Collins, third base; Leibold, right field; Strunk, center field; Falk, left field.

On the bench as reserves would be Eddie Murphy, premier pinch hitter of the major league; Jon-nard and George Lees, catchers; George Payne, pitcher, and several recruit pitchers and minor league fielders who are on trial with the team.

Comiskey's Statement.
Mr. Comiskey tonight made the following statement to the Associated Press:

"The consideration which the grand jury gave to this case should be greatly appreciated by the general public. The Hon. Charles A.
McDonald, chief justice, and the foreman of the grand jury, Harry Brigham, and his associates, who so diligently strove to save and make America's great game the clean sport which it is, are to be commended in our opinion. It is a wonderful game, and a game worth keeping clean."

"I would rather close my ball park than send nine men on the field with one of them holding a dishonest thought toward clean baseball—the game which John McGraw and I went around the world with to show to the people on the other side."

"We have the nucleus of another championship team with the remainder of the old world's champion team."

He named the veterans, Eddie and John Collins, Ray Schalk, Urban Faber, Dick Kerr, Eddie Murphy, Nemo Leibold and Amos Strunk, and declared that, with the addition of the new players, Jordan and McClelland, "I guess we can go along and win the championship yet."

Not Guilty, Says Weaver.
"Back" Weaver, after learning of his indictment and suspension, declined that he had agreed to help throw any world series games and that he had received any of the money.

"I batted .333, and made only four errors out of thirty chances in the world series," he said, "that should be a good enough alibi."

EBBETTS DECLARES GLEASON THOUGHT SERIES CROOKED

BY WILLIAM SLAVENS M'NUTT, United News Staff Correspondent.

New York, September 28.—With the prospect of a profitable world series just a few days off and the stench of the last world series rising strong from the grand jury room in Chicago, "Squire" Ebbetts, of Brooklyn, owner of the National league pennant winners, sat at his desk in the offices of his palatial park in Flatbush Tuesday and said the best assurance he could give the public of the honesty of the coming series was his own absolute certainty of the integrity of his team.

"I've been in baseball for thirty-eight years," he said, "and no one has ever so much as insinuated that I was ever anything but on the square. The people know me and I know my ball club. I know my ball club is honest. If I found out that any man or any set of men on my club was not on the level I'd fire him or them as the case might be.
If I found there was anything wrong with my club I'd throw it away and start a new one. I'd scrap the very minute I found out there was anything wrong."

"Are you sure that you would know whether there was anything wrong or not?" I asked him.
"Couldn't some player or players get away with it without your knowing it?"

"I'd know," he insisted. "I can tell whether a man's playing at the top of his form or not."

Gleason Seemed Something.
"Gleason, of the White Sox, has been quoted as saying that he knew after the first game of the series last year that something was wrong." I reminded him. "He didn't know just what per se. Might you not find yourself in the same position?"

"I'd know if anything was wrong," he reiterated.

"What other assurance can you give the public that this coming world series will not be a repetition of the last?" I asked him.

"No other," he said. "I know I've been with my players night and day and I know them."

"You know the testimony at Chicago indicates the same ring of gamblers meant to try to buy the Brooklyn club this year." I reminded him. "And have it throw the series to Cleveland. The game isn't wondering what's what. Lots of them are saying that if one series can be fixed another can."

"The gamblers can't buy the Brooklyn club," Ebbetts said. "I know my boys and I know they're honest."

"Do you think this exposure will hurt baseball?" I asked him.

Yankee Officials Offer Entire Team to Help the "Old Roman" In His Fight for Clean Game

New York, September 28.—The entire Yankee baseball team, from its $100,000 home run champion, Babe Ruth, down to the smallest bat boy of the organization, may go to the rescue of the wrecked Chicago White Sox team.

Colonel Jacob C. Ruppert and T.
L. Huston, owners of the New York outfit, moved by the revelations before the grand jury in Chicago, and keenly alive to the necessity of driving crookedness from baseball, turned their attention to Comiskey's smashed hopes when the news reached this city.

There was a conference late in the afternoon. And in the early evening this telegram went forward to the owner of the Chicago club. It speaks for itself:

"Your action in suspending these players, although it wrecks your entire organization, and perhaps your cherished life work, not only challenges our admiration, but excites our sympathy, and demands tactical assistance.

You are making a terrible sacrifice to preserve the integrity of the game. So grave and unforeseen an emergency requires an unusual remedy.

"Therefore, in order that you may play out your schedule and if necessary the world series, our entire club is placed at your disposal.
We are confident that Cleveland sportsmanship will not permit you to lose by default, and will welcome the arrangement. We are equally was that night of July 15th when our old 38th clinched the "Rock of the Marne" title! And, I guess you won't

Sam and I fought the war all over again and dug into our Camel supplies like it was "free commissary." Sam never will get all done talking about that session when we couldn't move a hair without getting a close shave —and, no eats or smokes! And, Sam was as clear as a bell as to how you located a fresh deck of Camels and passed 'em to our bunch just after we'd been relieved!

Sam has some song about how good Camels were to him in France—and ever since! That bird has his warble! Why, Camel talk trickles off his tongue like water flows over Pa Smith's mill dam! Pete, old carpet tack, Sam has a head, all right!

"Camels certainly are friendly," was the way Sam put it in his old-time vigor-vim style. "You know as well as I do," he added, "that no other cigarette has such a mild, mellow body. And, there's no harshness or tiredness of taste in a million Camels! No objectionable odor, no lingering unpleasant aftertaste! Summing it all up, Shorty, I'll say Camels are the greatest cigarettes in the world at any price!"

ALLEGED MAJOR ROBBER WILL BE TRIED HERE

Ivy West Is Arrested and Big Sum in Cash Is Seized.

Richmond, Va., September 23.—Ivy West, alias Ben Wilburn Franklin, 24, suspected of being one of a trio of robbers who stole more than $300,000 in cash and securities and diamonds valued at $40,000 in a registered mail car from a train en route between Atlanta and Charlotte, N. C., was bound over to the United States grand jury this afternoon before United States Commissioner Melvin Fiebigel.

West, in default of $10,000 bail, was remanded to the Henrico county jail pending trial in Atlanta. West was arrested at the home of his wife here today by postoffice inspectors. The robbery occurred between Atlanta and Charlotte, N. C. The other two alleged robbers, C. C. Monroe and Rufus Knight, both were arrested shortly after the crime, and are now in jail in Atlanta.

From Monroe and Knight the inspectors declared that they had found $15,000 of the bonds and several of the diamonds. After the arrest of West, Post Inspector W. J. Dixon recovered at a local pawnshop a 500 Liberty bond which had been sold for $100 and a diamond ring valued at $750, which had been pawned for $250. West's person was found between $5,000 and $6,000 in cash. He is a native of Amelia county, Va., where his parents live. He came to Richmond last night from Baltimore. Several of the special agents of the government had been following his movements, and they were alerted when he was located in Richmond this morning.

The theft of the bonds alluded to above occurred on the night of Wednesday, September 3, while the train was between Atlanta and Charlotte. The bonds were being sent to New York City, and it was then reported, from an Atlanta bank to New York City, that a number of Liberty bonds were being transported. The bonds in which they were being transported were valued at $100,000. The bonds were being sent to New York City, and it was then reported, from an Atlanta bank to New York City, that a number of Liberty bonds were being transported.

NO COOL WEATHER FOR ATLANTA SOON, SAYS FORECASTER

If a cool breeze happens to blow your way, don't think that the weather is getting cooler, not for awhile, anyway, for Forecaster von Hermon has declared that cool weather may continue another month.

Over the entire country, warm fair weather prevails. Some points in the central Gulf states and along the South Atlantic coast report light showers, but elsewhere conditions are generally clear.

Asheville, N. C., September 23.—Marching on the eve of the second anniversary of the day when the 6,000 members of the Old Hickory association, composed of veterans of the Thirtieth division, this afternoon passed through the streets of Asheville, the largest crowd gathered in the first day of the division's reunion.

THE NEW MAYFLOWER

A FAT BUNCH of years ago, as the crew tiles, the Pilgrim Fathers slapped their unbuttoned heels on New England's granite shore, having wisely decided to take out first citizenship papers before the import duties got into the hands of the speculators.

ANOTHER MAYFLOWER is being built by a squad of Englishmen. They are going to taxi to a nation that isn't in the league.

HOW ABOUT A FLEET of Mayflowers?

The new Pilgrims will sail away to escape profiteering, persecution, campaign ear oil, landlording and homesteaded grapplehopper needles. A boat line of the Thousand Isles and Yap would be the dar. That's where obstionists are money and a profiteer gets his price thrown at him.

PRICES ARE UP HIGHER than a scared squirrel. What goes up must come down.

Hotel Managers Get Rare Insight In Human Nature

Learn to Spot Man With "Light" or "Wet" Bag- gage, Untangle Human- ity's Problems and Hear Constant "Kicks."

"If you want to beat a hotel out of board and lodging do not bring 50-cent bag paper hand-bag which is empty when you come to register. One of Atlanta's leading hotel managers.

The same manager went on to explain that the principle method of spotting the chronic hotel-beats is by his baggage. "Usually a crook goes out and buys a bag which looks phony. We always inspect the baggage and gauge a crook's credit by his baggage. It is worth about a day's credit. But a couple of dollars and a trunk are considered good baggage and worth at least a week."

"What is the worst bet I ever had? Well, the biggest losses come from our old patrons and friends—after losing big bills for years they go broke and can't pay. I've got such a case now—owes a bill run-ning up the thousands, and he will pay sometime."

The interview settled into its "anecdotal" phase as the manager assumed a more comfortable position as he smiled reminiscently. "Yes, lots can be learned from the baggage."

The manager said that he had learned the nigger porter recognized "old Louie," who can spot many a crook. He said that he had learned to spot a crook by his baggage. "Usually a crook goes out and buys a bag which looks phony. We always inspect the baggage and gauge a crook's credit by his baggage. It is worth about a day's credit. But a couple of dollars and a trunk are considered good baggage and worth at least a week."

"Laundry Chief Problem." "Laundry gives us more trouble than anything else, though. Just yesterday I had a suit of clothes that was sent to the laundry. It was a six-foot man who wanted his R. V. D. suit—said he needed it to turn the hotel upside down and discovered a mother looking for the money and willing to exchange a silk shirt for a pair of pants. By patience we finally traced each article and returned them to their owners. When a pair of socks are lost permanently, though they are always brand new, I never heard of a pair of socks being lost in the laundry."

"Speaking of lost articles, some time ago we had a man here who lost a very handsome watch. We called in detectives and had every inch of the hotel searched. Turned things inside out from the guests' room to the basement. No watch. Several days later a man came in and called the man up and asked whether he remembered going to his room. He said he did. He said he had found the watch, which had been left in his room. He said he had found the watch, which had been left in his room. He said he had found the watch, which had been left in his room."

"We see some rare specimens of humanity in this game sort of kaleidoscope cross section of society, you might say. Take a guest who has a watch and a pair of socks. He is a native of Amelia county, Va., where his parents live. He came to Richmond last night from Baltimore. Several of the special agents of the government had been following his movements, and they were alerted when he was located in Richmond this morning."

"TRACK" SMATHERS RETURNS TO EMORY TO COACH TEAMS

Announcement was made that Captain Ray Kenneth Smathers, of Asheville, N. C., would be returned to Emory as director of athletics. Captain Smathers had a remarkable success as head coach of Emory last year, and his appointment has been trying to get him back for sometime. When he left Atlanta last year, he was disappointed whether or not he would continue in athletic work. The good news of his return will be a great interest to the students and alumni.

Captain Smathers is a graduate of Trinity college, a student, and showed great ability in athletics, having been a member of the varsity track team for four years, and captain and coach during his senior year. While in the army he was director of athletics and showed remarkable ability in organization work. His work at Emory last year was in many ways a big success.

Captain Smathers, better known to the students as "Track" Smathers, the present holder for the southern mile record. During the summer of 1918 he was in the army track team in the big army track and field meet at Camp Detrick, N. C., in which there were twenty-four colleges represented. It is believed that his work in the army track team was a big success.

Kirsch, in a Newport, made the fastest time of the day for 100 kilometers, negotiating the first lap in 21 minutes 29 seconds flat. Lecoil, by winning today's race, gives France possession of the James Gordon Bennett cup, as this was the third consecutive victory by the French. The result brought keen disappointment to the Americans in Paris, who had expected strong hopes in the American machines entered.

Lecoil, who led all the James Gordon Bennett cup records far behind. He also lowered the world's record in the distance, although faster time has been made over shorter distances. The pilot failed to duplicate his time average of 100 miles an hour in his last Saturday's trial. Today he averaged 169 and a fraction miles per hour.

Lecoil was carried from the field on the shoulders of French patriots. He was a popular one with the spectators, most of whom were French. Both Lecoil and his machine were popular. "The best man won," said Rinehart, "but you can't count on me that the fastest machine did."
